

Cosmic Reciprocity

The law of cosmic reciprocity puts all energy/ matter in relation, for matter itself is a qualification of cosmic energy. In brief, the law of evolving reciprocity states: “there is no gain except there is loss; there is no loss except there is gain.”

Change is the essential continuity of cosmic transformation. Cosmic transformation is inherently connected, coherently correlated, and essentially continuous. Thus, Planet Earth and all life are evolved outcomes of big-bang energy origin as is the disarray/ array of cosmic constellations. We are the progeny of starlight, of super-novae implosions.

Personal experience of cyclical nature (iterative processing) tells us that nothing stands still, that everything is evolving. We count the days of winter in the dormancy of seeds; we awaken to spring greening hope in the sprouting seed; we glory in the summer splendor of flourishing fields; and our autumn is enriched in the gold of the mature harvest. As Isaiah says, “All life is grass.” The race we run from dream to destiny is not unlike the dream and destiny of the dormant seed.

COSMOGENESIS—METAGENESIS—THEOGENESIS represent phases of evolved transformation/ reciprocity. The universe is creation’s macrophase; Web-life is the symbiotically evolved micro-mesophase (micro-organisms and vegetal/ animal organisms); intentional symbiosis reflects inherent divinity.

There is no increase except there is diminishment; there is no diminishment except there is increase. There is no new life (resurrection) except there is death. Eucharist is about diminishment/ increase, about death/ resurrection.

Divinity supposes humanity as humanity supposes divinity; microphase supposes the mesophase as mesophase supposes the microphase; the micro-mesophases suppose the macrophase as the macrophase supposes the micro-mesophases. Intentionality supposes “intensionality” as intensionality supposes intentionality. Purposefulness is the destiny of intention, of Godlike living, what is cultural/ civil harmony of communication (faith), consciousness (hope), and conscience (love).
