

Free Market Capitalism and Original Sin

Truth be known, nothing in nature is free; everything has value, everything is at a price.

Evolution is nature's Call; Sacrament is the Godly Response of conscionable self-reflection. The maintenance of sustainable web-life is a harmony (symphony) of life's communal call, and of personal, individual response. "Call" is collective resonance, the voice of vital purpose; "response" is personal fidelity to the voice of communal purpose, of wellbeing. Personal wellbeing is enabled in the sustainable outcomes of natural symbioses and Christian (altruistic) humanism (fidelity to Godlike purposes of personal/communal wellbeing.)

Nature's (evolution's) symbiotic purposes call each living generation into being with intentions of securing sustainable wellbeing. The conscionable response of symbiotic self-reflection is altruism, other-concern—what is "Christian" humanism. The culture of remembrance (sacrament) is the harmonic joining of personal consciousness with the communal purposes of common wellbeing, i.e., fidelity to natural symbiosis and self-reflective "divinity."

In the intentional harmony of mutuality, complementarity, and subsidiarity, personal fidelity fulfills and sustains nature's/ God's symbiotic purposes and intentions. Mutuality is natural invitation to community, to interpersonal engagement of common resources/potentials in purposes of sustainability and fulfillment, that is, by collective and economic use of natural resources. Complementarity recognizes and defers to individual talent and grace of otherness, whose diversity opens greater potentials of personal/ common fulfillment and wellbeing. Subsidiarity is insight into the immediate capacities of regional and bio-diverse life and reliance on them to meet needs of common wellbeing without putting at risk the bio-diverse resources of other regions.

The objective of harmonized mutuality/ complementarity/ subsidiarity is the securing of global economic/ ecologic diversity, resourcefulness and sustainability. Reason and faith, science and religion serve individual and communal life in the universal purpose of calling people to fidelity to symbiotic evolution and Godlike altruism. Personal/ social conscience is the moral, sustainable, "expected response" to the natural/ divine "call".

The infidelity of free Market Capitalism to natural authenticity and vital sustainability is a fatal defect that frustrates personal/ social conscience, even as it trashes the sensitive links of web-life economics—what is the Original and persisting Sin of consuming the "Forbidden Fruit" of vital purpose.
